

TO RESIGN IF HE WANTS TO

Governor Ties A String To His Resignation As Governor Of The State.

DELIVERS HIS MESSAGE HIMSELF

Document Is Long. But Does Not Contain Any Startling Recommendations For Consideration.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Dec. 5.—Gov. La Follette declared himself with a string tied to his declaration. After reading from his printed message for nearly two hours and completing it, he took up a sheet of typewritten manuscript and read the announcement that unless unforeseen events transpire to interfere with his plans he will resign the governorship at the close of the present extra session and go to the United States senate. The "string" is the "unforeseen events" and many have already expressed the opinion that this language is a veiled threat that unless the legislature acts agreeably on the legislation urged in the message he would stay in Wisconsin and fight it out. He will fight anyway, for his closing words were that he would always take an aggressive part in any contest in this state that "representative government" may continue.

Makes A Change.
James J. McGilivray of Black River Falls, the oldest legislator in point of service in the Wisconsin legislature, and long a La Follette follower, but who has not been encouraged in his recently announced candidacy for governor, vigorously declared his independence of the executive in a speech in the senate yesterday afternoon at the extra session.

He declared that no demagogue could dictate to this legislature, nor whip the members into violating their judgment and following a program of baiting and persecuting the business interests of the commonwealth. Administration men said the speech was a bid for stalwart support.

The legislature went through the formalities of organizing, and was informed by Governor La Follette that he would submit his message in person this morning. The members seem unanimously in favor of a brief session.

The Message.
The governor delivered in person his message to the joint session at nine-thirty this morning. He deals with legislation as suggested in his proclamation. The political observers believe the situation is unchanged, except it now means that perhaps Governor La Follette will stay in the state unless the legislature acts favorably upon his measures.

Primary Bill.
A large portion was devoted to the primary elections as established in the untried Wisconsin law. The governor expresses a fear this law will permit minority nominations. To avoid this he calls upon the legislature to provide that the voters shall signify first and second choices for the nominees, so if no candidate gets a majority the result can be determined by canvassing the second choices of the voters who cast the first choices for the weakest candidate.

Railroads.
The governor called attention to the fact that the railroads are withholding from the state about a million and a quarter dollars in taxes while the ad valorem law is in process of litigation. As a fifteen per cent penalty is now provided, the roads under this are expecting to pay the state interest at the rate of fifteen per cent, if the law is declared constitutional by the supreme court. Governor La Follette demands the legislature shall require the payment of all these taxes and give the roads the remedy, which they already possess, of suing to recover if the law is unconstitutional.

Insurance Methods.
The investigation of insurance methods is advocated and he recommends a committee with power to summon witnesses. To investigate methods and expenditures he appointed, and report next November.

Rate Commission.
Amendments to the state railroad rate commission law are recommended that will permit more favorable excursion rates than the corporations think they now legally are able to make. The need is also stated of a rate commission to have a uniform system of accounting and keep the state business separate from the interstate.

Booms and Piers.
A new law requires booms and piers as well as dams to be equipped with a special kind of fishway. There does not seem to be any reason for requiring fishways to be placed in booms and piers. To meet the special provisions of this law and place a fishway in every boom, pier and dam, imposes a heavy and sometimes unnecessary expense upon owners. It is submitted that it would be wiser legislation to clothe the fish commission with authority to prescribe the sort of fishways deemed best and to invest it with discretion as to the requirement and location of all fishways.

County Aid in Building Bridges.
The governor recommends that the statute relative to county aid in building bridges be carefully revised in the light of late supreme court decisions upon the subject.

WORRY OVER FREE RIDE ON BADGER RY

City and County Officials May Be Liable to Prosecution for Violating Anti-Pass Law.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 5.—City and county officials are greatly agitated for fear that they have violated the anti-pass law and are open to prosecution. When President Frost of the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric Railway company invited the city and county officers to attend the opening of the spur between Waukegan and Kenosha the social democratic aldermen refused, also the county judge, municipal judge and others, but the majority of the aldermen and supervisors besides county officials, accepted.

At the Chicago and Northwestern depot each was handed a ticket for free transportation to Waukegan and then given a free ride to Kenosha on the new line. It is claimed this is a clear violation of chapter 486, laws of 1905. The penalty is from one to five years in prison or a fine of from $200 to $1,000.

Attorneys are being consulted by officers who took the trip with a view of ascertaining whether they are liable.

ACCUSED OF CRUELTY TO PRISON INMATES

Indiana's Governor Listens to Startling Testimony Against Head of Girls' School.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 5.—The board of state charities, with Governor Hanly sitting as a member ex-officio, began Monday the investigation of charges that had been preferred against Miss Emily E. Rhoades, superintendent of the Indiana women's prison and industrial school for girls. Miss Rhoades is charged with cruelty to the inmates, with a lack of interest in the work of her subordinate officers and with other mismanagement.

Miss Kate Kinkelmeyer, former teacher at the institution, said she resigned because of the bad conditions at the prison.

"Going upstairs one day," she said, "I heard a blow struck and then a dull thud as if someone had fallen. Then I heard a girl's voice scream: 'Oh, don't, Miss Rhoades, don't. I don't know what was happening.'"

Miss Elizabeth Kirby, testified that she had seen Miss Rhoades, who appears to be a powerful woman, knock down a girl of average size, 15 or 16 years old. The witness is still a teacher at the school.

Miss Minnie Jenner testified that she saw Miss Rhoades seize a girl by the hair and throw her to the floor and Miss Eva Hall testified that she knew of many cases of cruelty.

ROOSEVELT IS NOW ON RECORD

His Message To Congress Not As Radical As It Was Thought It Would Be.

CONGRESS HEARD DOCUMENT TODAY

His Railroad Legislation Is A Surprise To Many Who Expected Ultra Radical Movement To Be Advocated.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, December 5.—Both houses of Congress assembled promptly this morning to await the President's message which will be the most important document the President has ever written. Quite a little time was consumed in the proper seating of the members of the House, many of whom are new. The joint congressional committee this morning informed the President that Congress was in session. At eleven forty this morning assistant secretary to President Barnes, an executive clerk and a young messenger, left the White House bearing copies of the President's message for reading in the house and senate distribution among the members.

The Message.
As was expected by the whole country, the key-note of the President's annual message to Congress is struck upon the question of rate legislation. He insists that Congress take action upon this matter, which he considers one of the gravest of national perils. Mr. Roosevelt leaves the question of tariff modifications for further presentation after the railroad business is out of the way. The matter of insurance legislation comes in for much attention, and the President thinks that the time has come for the federal government to assume some sort of supervision over this branch of business. He urges the ratification of the Santo Domingo treaty, and recommends an immediate appropriation for the prosecution of the work of the Panama Canal. He asks for a modification of the Chinese exclusions laws, and advocates higher salaries for the diplomatic and consular service. There is also a chapter on contemplated reforms in federal administrative methods and the creation of a general purchasing office for supplies.

Sentiment in Congress.
During the past week President Roosevelt has held so many conferences with prominent members of the Senate and House that there is good reason to believe that he has completely won over to his side nearly all who were opposed to the bill upon rate legislation that will be acted upon by Congress is that prepared by Senator Cullum, which combines Mr. Roosevelt's views with those of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners. It will be known as the "commission bill."

So much for rate legislation. As to the prospect of tariff revision, the "stand patters" are still confident that they can avoid any legislation not thoroughly in sympathy with their views. Uncle Joe Cannon has not seen or heard anything which would lead him to change the position he took last season, and he has a goodly number of adherents.

As to Chinese exclusion, it is the general consensus of opinion that the subject will not be touched upon during the present session. The boycott has worn itself out, and there is no reason to fear that American interests will be affected by further delay of action upon this matter.

Friends of the Indians, however, will do all in their power to have a law passed for the allotment in several of the lands belonging to the Osage Indians. These are the richest people per capita of all the inhabitants of the west and the farms which they hold in idleness can be turned into profit if worked. Of course the Indians do not consider this a friendly measure, but those who have their interest at heart say that such action by congress will be for their improvement.

The Message.
President Roosevelt's annual message has been delivered to congress. Opening with a plea for the co-operation of all classes in continuing the country's prosperity and in correcting existing evils, for a "square deal" for everybody, the message first takes up the question of corporations and railroad rate legislation. The president says:

Corporations.
I am in no sense hostile to corporations. This is an age of combination, and any effort to prevent all combination will be not only useless, but in the end vicious, because of the contempt for law which the failure to enforce law inevitably produces. The corporation has come to stay, just as the trades union has come to stay. Each can do and has done great good. Each should be favored so long as it does good. But each should be sharply checked where it acts against law and justice.

Experience has shown conclusively that it is useless to try to get any adequate regulation and supervision of these great corporations by state action. Such regulation and supervision can only be effectively exercised by a sovereign whose jurisdiction is coextensive with the field work of the corporations.

ALL CHILDREN ARE ASKED TO SEND LETTERS TO OLD SANTA

Care of The Gazette Office, Not Later Than Saturday, December 16—These Will Be Published On or Before the Following Tuesday—As Per Instructions From Bob-Sled Land.

When the letters which real people and humbugs and fairies write to the Gazette every day from almost everywhere and about almost everything, were opened this morning there was one among them which was not like any other that had ever come. The editor saw at once that it was from Bob-Sled Land, which, as everyone knows, is situated just beyond the forest of Christmas trees, in the shadow of the chocolate mountains and the pop-corn hills and at the very edge of maple sugar basin, which borders on the great plain of toys. Now this editor had just been grumbling fearfully over the story of a wicked old man at Skinner's Eddy who drove his poor dog, Prince, out to freeze one cold night this week, but he felt Prince to thaw out as best he could in the morning's sunlight when he saw that postmark, "Bob-Sled Land." Yes, indeed. Whistling isn't permitted in this office, except on holidays, but he made a noise just like the water-works does when the firemen have had a long rest and are getting lazy. You must know he was much surprised. For the letter was from Santa Claus! It was written last Tuesday and had been a whole week getting here. And this is what he said:

"Dear Gazette: I shall pass through Janesville and Rock county with my reindeer, as usual, on the coming Christmas eve. But you must know that there are many, many more good boys and girls in the world than ever before and I am going to have trouble. I fear, attending to them all. There are so many in and around Janesville that I may never reach Chicago at all if you don't help me. Tell them to write down as nicely as they can what they want me to bring them, how old they are, what good things they have done this year, and what they want me to bring the little brothers and sisters who are not big enough to write. Tell them to send these letters to Santa Claus, Care of the Janesville Gazette office, right away, so that they can all be printed in the paper. I shall look over the issue in which they appear very carefully. Until you hear the jingle of

"My Sleigh-bells," "SANTA CLAUS." This afternoon the Gazette sent a wireless dispatch to Bob-Sled Land, telling good old Kris Kringle that everything he asked should be done. All the children in the country are invited to write and their letters will be published not later than two weeks from today. They must all be in this office by a week from Saturday—that is, Saturday, December 16.

TOES OF ONE FOOT CRUSHED BY WHEELS

Loose Grab-Iron on Car Was Responsible for Accident Which Baffled Brakeman Frank Ross.

Just before halfpast four o'clock yesterday afternoon Frank Ross of North Fond du Lac, a freight brakeman employed on the North-Western railroad, seized hold of a loose grab-iron to lift himself onto one of the cars of a moving train. As he did so the iron gave way and he tumbled to the ground. Before he could extricate himself from his perilous position one of the wheels caught the tip of his left foot. Only the heavy pair of boots he wore prevented the amputation of his toes. As it was, they were badly crushed, but Drs. W. H. Palmer and Frank Farnsworth under whose care he was placed when taken to the hospital by Russell's ambulance a few minutes later, believe that they can save the injured members. Ross is unmarried.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Fritzi Scheff, the celebrated comic opera prima donna, under the direction of Charles Dillingham, is presenting at the Illinois theatre, Chicago, the new comic opera, "Mlle. Modiste," by Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom. The public, as well as the critics, have declared it to be the best comic opera in which the fascinating and popular little prima donna has hitherto been seen. Victor Herbert's music would seem to be more melodious than any of his recent compositions and high praise is accorded to the clever originality of Henry Blossom's book.

NEW VERSION OF AN OLD ADAGE

Do You Eat for Mere Stimulation or for Real Nutrition?
In matters of money there is an old adage that says: "It's not so much what you earn as what you save," and just so, in the question of food and health, it might be said as truly, "It's not so much what you eat as what real nourishment you get out of what you eat."

This is the secret of health, strength and vitality. No difference how much nutrition your food contains, if your system does not assimilate that nutrition—take it up and distribute it throughout your body—you gain nothing beyond a temporary stimulation by having eaten it.

Malta-Vita, best whole wheat malt mixed with pure barley malt extract, thoroughly steamed and cooked and every fibre baked to a crisp, is rich in nutrition and is assimilated readily even by the weakest stomach. Every one of the health-giving, strength-building elements is taken up by the human economy to nourish and sustain life.

No wonder that Malta-Vita is called "The Perfect Food," and that physicians recommend it for the sick and the well, the weak and the strong. And Malta-Vita is so good to eat—not at all like the tasteless variety of flaked foods. A perfect breakfast is impossible without it and it's just as good three times a day. Try a bowlful with cream or fruit. You never tasted anything so good.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat. No cooking, no inconvenience. All grocers, 10 cents.

UNUSUAL WEATHER HAS HELPED FARMERS

Past Five Weeks Has Enabled Them to Get Ahead with Their Next Year's Work.

Rock county has been blessed with fine weather conditions throughout the whole fall. Farmers have taken advantage of this unusual fine weather and are now in splendid shape, with their work for winter to come. Let it bring with it whatever it may—snow or rain; snow is preferable in most cases.

The farm work is practically all finished for this season so far as the caring for crops are concerned, corn especially. Shredding is over and the husking is practically all finished. Now that the work is over and most farmers have a little spare time, they are making very good use of it by attending the numerous auction sales that are taking place in various parts of the county.

According to a statement by one of our most prominent auctioneers, Col. W. T. Dooley, "There are more auctions at this time of the year than is usually the case. Business opened early and has continued good a great deal later than usual."

Owing to the good supply of fodder and grain through the county, cattle and hogs are selling for all they are worth, and men are at hand at these sales to pick up what they can in the line of stock to feed. They feel that they can afford to spend a few dollars now for more stock, feed them plentifully and turn them off at a profit by and by.

Every day puts the tobacco growers more and more on the anxious seat, waiting for damp weather to come, so that they can get their crops down and ready for delivery. The weather clerk does not seem to take into consideration that the tobacco-growers need any assistance this fall, therefore has sent but very little damp weather thus far, which would be very acceptable at the present.

Thanksgiving has come and gone, and although the turkey is considered the national bird for that day, still they were not plentiful this year and the supply was not equal to the demand. People nowadays do not go extensively into the turkey business anyway, for there is so much risk to run in raising them, they being extremely delicate when small and such rovers when grown. So there are not a great many flocks to be picked up and many of those are being held for the Christmas market.

Mrs. Anstine's Duck-boat is the real thing—gives you genuine old duck-boat flavor. Be sure and get the genuine.

COLD WEATHER HARD ON THE RAILROADS

Cold weather is the bane of all northern railroads and thousands of dollars are expended each year in maintaining schedules and making repairs necessitated through the action of cold and snow on the equipment. Already trains are late and in this part of the country plows are being prepared to keep the tracks cleaned of snow. In northern Wisconsin four feet of snow fell last Wednesday and the roads are just recovering from the blockade which resulted. The weather has had its effect upon Janesville also. Trains, especially from the north, have been late and all concrete work on the new shops which the St. Paul company are building, has been stopped. Two of the foundation walls of the structure were about completed when the thermometer fell. It is impossible to go on with the building until the weather warms up, for freezing will spoil the concrete work and cause the mortar between the bricks to crumble. Work on the roundhouse progresses well. The brick-laying was finished and despite the cold it is possible to continue with the roof construction. The windows will be put in shortly and the front wall, which is entirely of doors, will be placed. When this work is accomplished it will be possible to heat the structure and go on with the construction of concrete engine-pits, no matter what the temperature is out of doors.

BELOIT MOURNS A SKATING TRAGEDY

Orla Morey, Captain of College Baseball Team, Drowned in Rock River Yesterday Afternoon.

Orla Morey, captain of the Beloit College baseball team and one of the best-known amateur pitchers in the country, president of the Junior class, and one of the most popular students of the institution, was drowned in the Rock river just before half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon. In company with Don Wilson, whose brother sings in the Presbyterian church here, William Malone, a son of Judge Malone of Denver, former district attorney of Rock county, and the Misses Fannie Foster and Mildred Eaton he went skating immediately after the close of the astronomy period at 2:30. Mr. Morey and Miss Foster were skating together just above the inter-urban bridge on what is known as "the slough." The rest of the party were some distance back of them. Suddenly the ice gave way under Morey and his young lady companion and the two were struggling in the chill water. Those who were following them stopped just in time to escape plunging into the same hole. Wilson and Malone at once set to work to rescue the young woman and her escort. They succeeded in getting Miss Foster out but Morey, in the meantime, had drifted under the ice and was lost. The police were notified of the terrible tragedy and hurried to the scene. The body of the unfortunate young man was recovered shortly after four o'clock. All efforts at resuscitation failed. A message was sent to his parents and two brothers who reside in Rupert, Ver- mont. Morey was nearly twenty-five years of age. He had been a student at Beloit seven years and was a member of the Beta Theta Pi college fraternity. College is practically closed today, no disaster in years having affected the students as did the accident. The remains of young Morey will be shipped east tonight, special services being held in the college chapel this afternoon.

WEATHER RECORD FOR PAST MONTH

TEMPERATURES HIGH AND LOW, AND CONDITIONS IN NOVEMBER

GENERAL AVERAGE WAS 40.5

This is a Fall of 15.1 Degrees from the General Average of October.

With the sun shining sixteen out of thirty days the month of November "might have been worse" as regards weather conditions. The fourteen remaining days were not altogether disagreeable, some of them only partly cloudy, others cloudy, while on still others there was a drizzle or snow flurries. The temperature averages fell about fifteen degrees below the averages of October. Though the low temperature was above the freezing point on thirteen days, the average low stands at 30.8. The highest low mark is 42 and the lowest the thermometer fell was on Thanksgiving day, when the mercury registered at 10. The average temperatures are: general, 40.5, a fall of 15.1 degrees from the corresponding figure for October; high 50.2, a fall of 16.2; low 30.8, a fall of 13.0. Rioters in Buda-Pesth Wreck Press-room and Break Windows.
Buda-Pesth, Dec. 4.—The hostility to universal suffrage manifested in some quarters developed into riotous scenes Monday night when workmen attacked the offices of the Buda-Pesth Hirap, broke all the windows and wrecked the pressroom. The occupants of the building fled on the rioters, who finally were dispersed by the police. The number of injured is not known. BELOIT MOURNS A SKATING TRAGEDY

Orla Morey, Captain of College Baseball Team, Drowned in Rock River Yesterday Afternoon.

Orla Morey, captain of the Beloit College baseball team and one of the best-known amateur pitchers in the country, president of the Junior class, and one of the most popular students of the institution, was drowned in the Rock river just before half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon. In company with Don Wilson, whose brother sings in the Presbyterian church here, William Malone, a son of Judge Malone of Denver, former district attorney of Rock county, and the Misses Fannie Foster and Mildred Eaton he went skating immediately after the close of the astronomy period at 2:30. Mr. Morey and Miss Foster were skating together just above the inter-urban bridge on what is known as "the slough." The rest of the party were some distance back of them. Suddenly the ice gave way under Morey and his young lady companion and the two were struggling in the chill water. Those who were following them stopped just in time to escape plunging into the same hole. Wilson and Malone at once set to work to rescue the young woman and her escort. They succeeded in getting Miss Foster out but Morey, in the meantime, had drifted under the ice and was lost. The police were notified of the terrible tragedy and hurried to the scene. The body of the unfortunate young man was recovered shortly after four o'clock. All efforts at resuscitation failed. A message was sent to his parents and two brothers who reside in Rupert, Ver- mont. Morey was nearly twenty-five years of age. He had been a student at Beloit seven years and was a member of the Beta Theta Pi college fraternity. College is practically closed today, no disaster in years having affected the students as did the accident. The remains of young Morey will be shipped east tonight, special services being held in the college chapel this afternoon.

BREATHE HEALING BAL-SAMS

Hyomei, the Guaranteed Catarrh Cure, Endorsed by Physicians.

No one should confound Hyomei with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians.

Its base is the famous eucalyptus oil, well known for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gums and balsams, making a pure liquid which, when used in the Hyomei pocket inhaler, fills the air you breathe with germ killing, disease destroying and healing powers that restore health to every part of the throat, nose and lungs.

Hyomei is endorsed by physicians generally. Many of them use it themselves to break up a cold and prevent pneumonia. It is the only natural and rational way of curing catarrh.

This treatment has been so successful, curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by the People's Drug Co. under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

— FORTY YEARS AGO —

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, December 3, 1865.—Union Service.—On Thanksgiving day there will be a Union service in the Methodist Episcopal church, to be participated in by the Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists. The sermon on the occasion will be delivered by Rev. Mr. Marek. Services to commence at half past ten o'clock.

Military.—A dispatch to the Governor, dated New Orleans, December 3, states that the second regiment of Wisconsin cavalry, comprising thirty-four officers, and six hundred and sixty-four men, has been mustered out of service and is now on its way home.

Suspension of Business on Thanksgiving.—We understand it is the purpose of the business men generally throughout the city, to suspend business on Thanksgiving day. This is as it should be. It is not only peculiarly appropriate that the nation should observe such a festival, in the light of the blessings which we so abundantly enjoy, but we have so few holidays, there is need that we observe fully at we have.

Virginians Asking for Troops.—The people of Virginia who have been so restive under military rule, are now boggling that the volunteer troops in that state, who are offered to be mustered out, be retained in service until after Christmas holidays, to keep the negroes quiet. If they are mustered out now there will only be 6,000 Union troops left in Virginia, 4,000 of whom are stationed at Richmond. The truth of the matter is the P. F. V.'s are afraid of a negro insurrection during the holidays.

WEATHER FORECAST

Fair; partially cloudy.

"The absent one has little chance of being the heir." But it's a better chance than has the "absent advertiser" for securing his share of public patronage.

Tammany has the counting machinery, but the czar also had the troops.

Nichols can always be trusted to take a bold stand for progress when forced to do so.

Russia is shedding its grand dukes much as a frisky colt sheds its hair in the spring.

Count Witte should not be judged by his whiskers. They are the style in his country.

At the outset of the new regime let Russia be warned against the perils of machine politics.

Let us hope that Russian students will not construe liberty as license and go to playing football.

If Witte is a man who sizes up to the Bismarck standard of greatness he has a fine chance to show it.

EPIGRAMS FROM THE MESSAGE.

"Individual capitalist, and individual wage worker, corporation and union, are alike entitled to the protection of the law, and must alike obey the law."

"This government is not and never shall be governed by a plutocracy."

"This government is not and never shall be governed by a mob."

"Men are qualified for civil liberty in exact proportion to their disposition to put moral chains upon their own appetites."

"Our aim is righteousness."

"The stocks out of which American citizenship is to be built should be strong and healthy, sound in body, mind and character."

"The noblest of all forms of government is self-government; but it is also the most difficult."

"The future of the nation depends upon the citizenship of the generation to come."

"We judge a man by his conduct—that is, by his character—and not by his wealth or intellect."

"Taken as a whole we must all go up or down together."

"I am in no sense hostile to corporations."

"The corporation has come to stay, just as the trade union has come to stay."

"I do not believe in the government interfering with private business more than is necessary."

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The president's message, read before both houses of congress today, is a lengthy document and thoroughly characteristic of the man. The opening pages are devoted to the theme which has become a hobby with the chief executive, namely, railroad legislation, and governmental rate making power.

The message appears in another part of the paper and a careful reading of the section on corporations impresses the belief that the writer is not only enthusiastic, but also honest in his convictions.

That he believes in a square deal for the railroads, and that he is opposed to government ownership, is plainly expressed in the following paragraph.

"The question of transportation lies at the root of all industrial success, and the revolution in transportation which has taken place during the last half century has been the most important factor in the growth of the new industrial conditions. Most emphatically we do not wish to see the man of great talents refused the reward for his talents. Still less do we wish to see him penalized; but we do desire to see the system of railroad transportation so handled that the strong man shall be given no advantage over the weak man. We wish to insure as fair treatment for the small town as for the big shipper. In the old days the highway of commerce, whether by water or by a road on land, was open to all; it belonged to the public and the traffic along it was free. At present the railway is this highway, and we must do our best to see that it is kept open to all on equal terms. Unlike the old highway it is a very difficult and complex thing to manage, and it is far better that it should be managed by private individuals than by the government. But it can only be so managed on condition that justice is done the public. It is because, in my judgment, public ownership of railroads is highly undesirable and would probably in this country entail far-reaching disaster, that I wish to see such supervision and regulation of them in the interest of the public as will make it evident that there is no need for public ownership."

Popular sentiment, stimulated by radical reform leaders, is clamoring for rate regulation, and the president is more or less influenced by this sentiment. It is more than probable that something will be done along the lines suggested in the message and the result may be a separate commission composed of men thoroughly qualified to meet the situation, without injustice to the great railway industry.

The question of labor is handled intelligently and with a grasp of the situation which shows that the president is familiar with conditions. He believes in the rights of the individual and in the rights of organization, so long as it does not conflict with public welfare.

The question of life insurance, which is just now claiming public attention, is vigorously handled, and the congress is recommended to take such action as is necessary to stop corruption, and properly safeguard the people.

The message has but little to say concerning the tariff, and in this respect will be a disappointment to people who are clamoring for radical action. The president realizes the importance of stability, and is slow to advocate any measures which may tend to unsettle values.

The currency question is also left to work out its own solution. Confidence is expressed in the national banking system and congress is urged to aid the banks in providing a more elastic currency.

The Hague conference and the Monroe doctrine are emphasized at length and the importance of permanent peace strongly endorsed.

The recommendations for the army and navy, are in keeping with the president's policy. While strongly advocating peace he believes in being thoroughly prepared for any emergency.

The fact that much fraud has existed in the public domain is recognized, and congress is urged to enact stringent laws to safeguard the small amount of land still owned by the government.

If the recommendations concerning immigration are carried out, much existing evil, along this line, will be regulated, and China will have no occasion to complain. The president, however, fails to recognize the fact that an inefficient civil service protected immigration bureau is responsible for existing conditions.

His hobby for civil service is somewhat modified, and the heads of departments are now clothed with a little authority, but the sad is still a hobby with him. He tries to make himself believe that the public business is run on business principles, when the fact is notorious that many departments are destitute of the first principles of business, and this is largely due to civil service as it exists today.

The message is worth a careful reading. It sparkles with honesty of conviction and a vigorous desire to give the people of the nation, irrespective of creed, color, or condition, "a square deal."

PRESS COMMENT.

Where Many of Them Belong. Madison Journal: Now that the football season is over, efforts to reform the game will be put in cold storage.

Denied, But Without Emotion. Chicago Tribune: The governor of New York denies that Senator Depew has sent in his resignation, but he doesn't deny it indignantly.

Is This Sneer Justified. Milwaukee News: In brief, without the harbors to make it a coaling station, the Isle of Pines has failed to interest manifest destiny.

Boquet Tossed Across the Sea. Chicago Inter Ocean: Queen Alexandra does not look it. She never has. Which is another proof of the absurdity of measuring a woman's age by the years she has lived.

Leave It to Its Acquaintances. Superior Telegram: Perhaps the time will never come when football players will wear plug hats during a game, but certainly some degree of reform is needed.

No Divine Right—Just Pay. Chicago Record-Herald: King Haakon has promised the Norwegians that he will rule them according to their wishes. Evidently all Haakon wants out of it is the salary.

In Good Old Christmas Time. Exchange: The average length of men's necks is said to be increasing, but at this season of the year it is the increasing length of the average man's leg that is most noticeable.

Where to Look for Bugs. El Paso Herald: Gage Tarbell never said a truer word than in saying that the remedy for all imaginable insurance lies in "publicity." Bugs never get on the sunny side of a chip.

May Have to Create New Issue. Green Bay Gazette: At the rate with which insurance officials are handing in their resignations, Tom Lawson will have to hurry with those proxies or the rascals will all be out before he gets a chance at them.

Grumble From Democratic Camp. Milwaukee News: After he has eliminated brutality from football, Mr. Roosevelt might do his four-footed friends a good turn and join the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, especially bears.

Has Led Them Far Afield. Whitewater Register: La Follette has led a good many of his party not in the republican direction, but in the socialistic-democratic direction, until it is hard to tell whether his following is more La Follette's republicanism or Bryan-Hearst democracy.

Championship Begrudged. La Crosse Leader-Press: Chicago is the western football champion without demonstrating that it has a better team than Wisconsin or Michigan. On the merits of the contest both the Chicago-Wisconsin and the Chicago-Michigan games should have been ties.

Filled to the Hoops. Delavan Republican: As much fuss as they made over it, no one cares a rap whether La Follette resigns or goes to the senate. The space in creation allotted to him by a merciful Providence is filled clear to the hoops and no straining can make him any bigger.

Prizes Not Yet Disreputable. Waupun Leader: "Is done, finished, settled. The post-office department, in response to an inquiry by the Baraboo postmaster, has made the ruling that the names of prize winners in card games may be published in newspapers going through the mails, providing that no admission to the game is charged. The country breathes freer."

Auction Must Be Advertised. The Madisonian: We object to any sale of a United States senatorship until notice of the time and place of sale has been first duly given by publication for ten days in some newspaper published in the county, or by notice posted in three of the most public places in the city where the sale is to take place at least five days before the sale.

New York Governor's Gall. El Paso Herald: Ben Odell has all his nerve with him and deserves as much credit as Ajax in defying the lightning in his present attitude of defying President Roosevelt to shake him in his leadership of New York state. It is creditable, no doubt, but highly indiscreet. Just as a matter of wise policy, public men have found it purer to go around shaking too many dones at Roosevelt.

Vouchsafed to the Young. Appleton Post: It is a constitutional right of every boy in the winter regions to have his first skating for Thanksgiving evening. He is mischievous indeed who is not ready for it with new or well preserved skates. There is no such skating any other time of the year. The delicious smoothness and tough bending of the new ice, the keen but not too cold air, brace him to his work. Perhaps, also, new snow may be vouchsafed to the young and then a sleigh ride, packed on hay in a box sleigh, or carefully tucked up in the cutter, now gloriously pleasant and never to be forgotten is the day! Such is the American Thanksgiving, and God forbid the day and save the family when this feast is neglected and carousing replaces the family festival.

After Message—Still Grooping. Milwaukee Sentinel: But why should the members of the legislature and the citizens of the state be called upon to pay the piper while the boss dances? The law-makers are not aware of any urgent demand for an extra session. They will be bewildered in Madison today the most bewildered party of men that ever gathered in the statehouse. They will listen to the reading of the executive message, all the time wondering whether the governor means what he says or is only "sparring for wind." The imperfections in the statutes pointed out—and there are imperfections in many statutes—certainly do not justify the calling of an extra session. The message will be referred item by item to the committees and the members will return to their guessing and waiting for more light. If the legislature of Wisconsin is made up of the right kind of timber it will not submit to the whims and caprices of a political manipulator whose sole purpose it is to play the game for what there is in it for him.

Cooper's Error Gently Reproved. Milwaukee Free Press: Representative Cooper has gone on to Washington, leaving the question of postmasters at the three principal cities in his district unanswered. It may come easier, by and by, to settle these appointments; but if it does the first congressional district is an exception to the rule. More trouble has been made, by themselves, and for themselves, by men holding the appointing power, than has been made by all their enemies. It would be a mighty sight easier to mollify a man who had not got in his application than it would be to get square with twenty men who had got theirs in, and had been dangled along for months, being led to think they might possibly get the prize.

And yet this is exactly what most public officials with appointments to make, do; why, we could never understand. How easy it would be to say: "By George, Bill, I am sorry. I wish I had known you wanted that. But you are too late. It is promised. Why didn't you let me know sooner?" It may take Bill some time to get over his disappointment; but he will get over it, and he can't get very mad. It was his own fault.

FOUND THAT THERE WERE NO PATROL WAGONS IN STOCK. City Marshal Appleby and Alderman Fish Returned From Chicago Last Night. City Marshal William Appleby and Alderman Eugene Fish returned last evening from Chicago, where they visited several carriage factories in search of ideas in patrol wagons. They found that none of these concerns had any in stock, as the city of Chicago and many other municipalities build their own vehicles. Two of the concerns, however, will submit designs and estimates.

POSTMASTER IS NAMED BY COOPER

CHARLES L. VALENTINE THE CANDIDATE SELECTED.

WILL SUCCEED MR. NOWLAN

Has Had Long Public Service—Is
Veteran of the Civil War—
Other Candidates.

Congressman Cooper has selected Charles L. Valentine for the postmastership of Janesville. The announcement was made last evening in the Milwaukee papers and telegraphed to Janesville where Mr. Valentine was notified of his selection. Mr. Cooper has wasted no time in his selection of Janesville and the business men of the city wish Mr. Valentine joy in his new work. The fight, what there was, was strictly between the members of the Governor's cohorts. Nine-fifty per cent of the voters of the city of Janesville took no part in the scramble for the office, but in the selection of Mr. Valentine are well pleased with Mr. Cooper's choice. The appointment is strictly upon able service to the cause of La Folletteism, although Mr. Valentine has other claims to the office, having had the endorsement of many of the banks and prominent business houses of the city, aside from being an old soldier and an able executive.

An Old Resident.
Charles L. Valentine was born in Genesee county, N. Y., October, 1846. He came to Wisconsin with his parents in 1849 and received his education in the Janesville schools. At the breaking out of the war he enlisted in Company E of the Fifth Wisconsin and fought through the entire struggle until May 12, 1864, when he lost his leg in the fighting about Spotsylvania Court House, Virginia. From 1875 until 1895 he was register of deeds of Rock county and was elected to the assembly from the second district in 1900 and again in 1902. For fourteen years he was a member of the Wisconsin Fish Commission.

An Ardent Sportsman.
Mr. Valentine is an ardent sportsman and spends much of his time hunting and fishing. His long record as a public servant has given him a wide acquaintance and his appointment to the postmastership is very pleasing to his many friends. When Mr. Cooper was here recently petitions from prominent citizens in behalf of E. O. Kimberley, Marshall P. Richardson, Angie King and Frank P. Starr were presented. Fred Clemons, V. P. Richardson, L. L. Leslie and John Fisher were also mentioned at this time as possibilities, but Valentine, Kimberley, Richardson, Angie King and Frank P. Starr were the only candidates who made any fight for the office.

Whitehead was skating alone, when he went in, and he struggled for twenty minutes until completely exhausted before help came. He was dragged from the river in an exhausted condition and was delivered all night. His escape was a narrow one and he was almost gone when a passerby saw his predicament and helped him.

TAINTED MONEY ALL
O. K. FOR CHURCHES

Men's Club of Methodist Church Decides That Source Does Not Injure Funds.

In the parlors of the Methodist church last evening the Men's Club of that society opened their winter's program with a supper, debate and discussion. The repeat, which was served by the ladies of the church at half past six, was most delicious. When the tables were cleared an hour later Dr. Richards, chairman of the evening, stated the subject and introduced the first speaker. The theme was: "Resolved, That it is Right for the Church to Accept Tainted Money." George A. Jacobs on the affirmative was the first to speak. T. E. Bennison on the negative side followed. The debate continued for about an hour, J. S. Taylor and R. Clark being colleagues of Mr. Jacobs and W. I. Rothermel and H. W. Perrigo colleagues of Mr. Bennison. The judges were F. J. Barfoot, Finley Williams and W. G. Palmer and they rendered a decision in favor of the affirmative. During the session of the jurors the time was given over to a general discussion. Many spoke, advancing new arguments pro and con. The selection of a subject and leader for the next meeting is in the hands of the program committee.

The jury was then dismissed. The action of Charles Schmaling vs. Herman Butke was then taken up. Final arguments in the action of Scott and Sherman vs. Decker will be made tomorrow morning.

MARRIED A MONTH;
SUCCUMBS SUDDENLY

William Gurney, Former Business Man Here, Dies of Heart Failure in Alvin, Texas.

Word of the sudden death of William Gurney, a former business man of Janesville, was received here this morning. The sad news came in a letter from the deceased's wife, nee Miss Bertha Schenke of this city, to her sister, Miss Augusta Schenke, who is employed in the home of Fred Capelle on South High street. The demise occurred at about seven o'clock last Friday morning and was due to heart failure. William Gurney was at one time in partnership with Anton Hanauka, but after dissolving this agreement last April he went to Alvin, Texas. There he took up a home and about a month ago returned, marrying Miss Bertha Schenke, who was employed in the home of W. H. H. Maclean on South Jackson street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Koerner at the German Lutheran parsonage. Mr. Gurney was about forty-eight years of age and had many friends here who will mourn his loss. The remains were taken to Joliet, Ill., for interment, a mother and several brothers residing there.

MERITORIOUS WORK
BY THE STOCK CO.

Which Opened Week's Engagement at the Myers Last Night Delighted a Large Audience.

Himmelman's Imperial Stock Co. was greeted with a large and enthusiastic audience upon the opening of its engagement here at the Myers theatre last evening. In the high quality of play and playing revealed in last night's production is sustained throughout the balance of the week the company will surely enjoy a prosperous run in Janesville. The rural comedy, "Out of the Fold," was adequately staged and contained much real humor and pathos which were not muted by being overdone. Jessie Henderson sustained the most difficult role of Helen Gray, the penitent and persecuted woman, and A. O. Miller was sufficiently convincing as the village school-master. Claude Melotte offered a rich contribution as the gawky school-boy and made the most of his many opportunities in the mirth-provoking school-room scene. Madeline Goodwin gave a remarkably good delineation of "Mrs. Cobb," the village gossip, and Julia Hurley was excellent as "Annie Jane." The specialties pleased. Announcements for the week were: Tuesday evening—"The Red Cross Nurse"; Wednesday—"The Rose of Killarney"; Thursday—"The Moonshiners"; Friday—"The Galley Slave"; Saturday matinee—"East Lynne"; Saturday night—"Over the Hills to the Poorhouse."

Local school teachers are in receipt of announcements of the fifty-third annual gathering of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association, which will be held in the city of Milwaukee from December 27 to 29. The program will be of much interest and a number from this city will without doubt attend. Superintendent H. C. Buell will be in charge of the Manual Training and Domestic Art section meeting. Among the features which are arranged several will be of particular interest to the Janesville pedagogues, the speakers being known to them. William L. Toulins, who lectured here two years ago, will deliver an address and give illustrated talks on music; Superintendent Cary will talk on "Consolidation of Rural Schools"; Amos P. Wilder, editor of the Madison Journal, who spoke here a year ago, will give his lecture, "Some Teachers I Have Known." A president is to be elected this year and the new primary system adopted at the meeting last year will be put in practice. Each teacher will be given two ballots, one for nominating and the other for electing. If any one should receive a majority of votes on the nominating cast he will be declared elected, otherwise those two receiving the highest number shall be considered the nominees and a ballot for election be cast the following day.

A GOOD AFTER-DINNER CIGAR.
The Smith Drug Company Says The Chicos Just Fill The Bill.

The time to enjoy a real good cigar is after a good dinner. There is no better time to test the quality of Wadsworth Bros' Chicos than to light one right after a hearty meal, says Mr. Ed. Smith of the Smith Drug Company. It just fills the bill for a good after-dinner cigar.

It is clear, long Havana filler of superior quality, and the size is exactly right.

The Smith Drug Company say they have sold more Chicos since they introduced this brand in Janesville than they ever sold before of any brand in four times as long. This shows how well it pleases the smoker who enjoys a good cigar.

Considering its superior quality the price at which it sells, five cents straight, is a surprise.

Step into the Smith Drug Company's store to-day Mr. Smoker, and get a pocket full of Wadsworth Bros' Chicos.

"Ye Gyfte Shoppe"

Miss Louise D. Hill of Ye Gyfte Shoppe, 421 West State street,

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

a division of the rate for refrigerating charges is just as pernicious as a rebate in any other way.

There should be publicity of the accounts of common carriers. Only in this way can violations or evasions of the law be surely detected. A system of examination of railroad accounts should be provided similar to that now conducted into the national banks by the bank examiners. A few first class railroad accountants, if they had proper direction and proper authority to inspect books and papers, could accomplish much in preventing willful violations of the law.

Employers' Liability Law.

In my annual message to the Fifty-eighth congress at its second session I recommended the passage of an employers' liability law for the District of Columbia and in our navy yards. I renewed that recommendation in my message to the Fifty-ninth congress at its second session and further suggested the appointment of a commission to make a comprehensive study of employers' liability with a view to the enactment of a wise and constitutional law covering the subject, applicable to all industries within the scope of the federal power. I hope that such a law will be prepared and enacted as speedily as possible.

There has been demand for depriving courts of the power to issue injunctions in labor disputes. Such special limitation of the equity powers of our courts would be most unwise. It is true that some judges have misused this power, but this does not justify a denial of the power any more than an improper exercise of the power to call a strike by a labor leader would justify the denial of the right to strike. The remedy is to regulate the procedure by requiring the judge to give due notice to the adverse parties before granting the writ, the hearing to be ex parte if the adverse party does not appear at the time and place ordered. What is due notice must depend upon the facts of the case. It should not be used as a pretext to permit violation of law or the jeopardizing of life or property. Of course this would not authorize the issuing of a restraining order or injunction in any case in which it is not already authorized by existing law.

I renew the recommendation I made in my last annual message for an investigation by the department of commerce and labor of general labor conditions, especial attention to be paid to the conditions of child labor and child labor legislation in the several states. Such an investigation should take into account the various problems with which the question of child labor is connected. In such a republic as ours the one thing that we cannot afford to neglect is the problem of turning out decent citizens. The future of the nation depends upon the citizenship of the generations to come. The children of today are those who tomorrow will shape the destiny of our land, and we cannot afford to neglect them. The legislature of Colorado has recommended that the national government provide some general measure for the protection from abuse of children and dumb animals throughout the United States. I lay the matter before you for what I trust will be your favorable consideration.

As to Women Who Work.

The department of commerce and labor should also make a thorough investigation of the conditions of women in industry. Over 5,000,000 American women are now engaged in gainful occupations, yet there is an almost complete dearth of data upon which to base any trustworthy conclusions as regards a subject as important as it is vast and complicated. The introduction of women into industry is working change and disturbance in the domestic and social life of the nation. The decrease in marriage, and especially in the birth rate, has been coincident with it. We must face accomplished facts, and the adjustment to factory conditions must be made, but surely it can be made with less friction and less harmful effects on family life than is now the case. This whole matter in reality forms one of the greatest sociological phenomena of our time. It is a social question of the first importance, of far greater importance than any merely political or economic question can be.

In any great labor disturbance not only are employer and employee interested, but also a third party—the general public. Every considerable labor difficulty in which interstate commerce is involved should be investigated by the government and the facts officially reported to the public.

Insurance.

The great insurance companies afford striking examples of corporations whose business has extended so far beyond the jurisdiction of the states which created them as to preclude strict enforcement of supervision and regulation by the parent states. In my last annual message I recommended that the congress carefully consider whether the power of the bureau of corporations cannot constitutionally be extended to cover interstate transactions in insurance. Recent events have emphasized the importance of an early and exhaustive consideration of this question, to see whether it is not possible to furnish better safeguards than the several states have been able to furnish against corruption of the flagrant kind which has been exposed. It has been only too clearly shown that certain of the men at the head of these large corporations take but small note of the ethical distinction between honesty and dishonesty. They draw the line only this side of what may be called law honesty, the kind of honesty necessary in order to avoid falling into the clutches of the law. Of course the only complete remedy for this condition must be found in an aroused public conscience, a higher sense of ethical conduct in the community at large and especially among business men and in the great profession of the law, and in the growth of a spirit which condemns all dishonesty, whether in rich man or in poor man, whether it takes the shape of bribery or of blackmail. But much can be done by legislation which is not only drastic, but practical. There is need of a far stricter and more uniform regulation of the vast insurance interests of this country. The United States should in this respect follow the policy of other nations by providing adequate national supervision of commercial interests which are clearly national in character.

I repeat my previous recommendation that the congress should consider whether the federal government has any power or owes any duty with respect to domestic transactions in insurance of an interstate character. That state supervision has proved inadequate is generally conceded.

The Revenue.

There is more need of stability than of the attempt to attain an ideal perfection in the methods of raising revenue, and the shock and strain to the business world certain to attend any serious change in these methods render such change inadvisable unless for grave reason. It is not possible to lay down any general rule by which to determine the moment when the reasons for or will outweigh the reasons against such a change. No change can be made on lines beneficial to or desired by one section or one state only. There must be something like a general agreement among the citizens of the several states that the change is needed and desired in the interest of the people as a whole, and there should then be a sincere, intelligent and disinterested effort to make it in such shape as will combine, so far as possible, the maximum of good to the people at large with the minimum of necessary regard for the special interests of localities or classes, but in time of peace the revenue must, on the average, taking a series of years together, equal the expenditures or else the revenues must be increased. Last year there was a deficit. Unless our expenditures can be kept within the revenues then our revenue laws must be readjusted.

It is impossible to outline what shape such a readjustment should take, for it is as yet too early to say whether there will be need for it. It should be considered whether it is not desirable that the tariff laws should provide for applying as against or in favor of any other nation maximum and minimum tariff rates established by the congress, so as to secure a certain reciprocity of treatment between other nations and ourselves.

Economy in Expenditures.

I earnestly recommend to the congress the need of economy and, to this end, of a rigid scrutiny of appropriations. All unnecessary offices should be abolished. In the public printing also a large saving of money can be made. There is a constantly growing tendency to publish masses of unimportant information at which no human being ever looks.

Yet, in speaking of economy, I must in no wise be understood as advocating the false economy which is in the end the worst extravagance. To cut down in the navy would be a crime against the nation. To fail to push forward all work on the Panama canal would be as great a folly.

Currency.

Every consideration of prudence demands the addition of the element of elasticity to our currency system. The evil does not consist in an inadequate volume of money, but in the rigidity of this volume, which does not respond as it should to the varying needs of communities and of seasons. Inflation must be avoided, but some provision should be made that will insure a larger volume of money during the fall and winter months than in the less active seasons of the year, so that the currency will contract against speculation and will expand for the needs of legitimate business. At present the treasury department is at irregularly recurring intervals obliged in the interest of the business world—that is, in the interests of the American public—to try to avert financial crises by providing a remedy which should be provided by congressional action.

Business Methods in Departments.

At various times I have instituted investigations into the organization and conduct of the business of the executive departments. While none of these inquiries have yet progressed far enough to warrant final conclusions, they have already confirmed and emphasized the general impression that the organization of the departments is often faulty in principle and wasteful in results, while many of their business methods are antiquated and inefficient. I recommend that the congress consider this subject.

Federal Elections.

In my last annual message I said: "The power of the government to protect the integrity of the elections of its own officials is inherent and has been recognized and affirmed by repeated declarations of the supreme court. There is no enemy of free government more dangerous and none so insidious as the corruption of the electorate. No one defends or excuses corruption, and it would seem to follow that none would oppose vigorous measures to eradicate it. I recommend the enactment of a law directed against bribery and corruption in federal elections. The details of such a law may be safely left to the wise discretion of the congress, but it should go as far as under the constitution it is possible to go and should include severe penalties against him who gives or receives a bribe intended to influence his act or opinion as an elector and provisions for the publication not only of the expenditures received and expenditures made by political committees."

I desire to repeat this recommendation. All contributions by corporations to any political committee or for any political purpose should be forbidden by law, directors should not be permitted to use stockholders' money for such purposes, and, moreover, a prohibition of this kind would be as far as it went, an effective method of stopping the evils aimed at in corrupt practices acts.

The Hague Conference.

The first conference of nations held at The Hague in 1899, being unable to dispose of all the business before it, recommended the consideration and settlement of a number of important questions by another conference to be called subsequently and at an early date. These questions were the following: (1) The rights and duties of neutrals; (2) The limitation of the armed forces on land and sea and of military budgets; (3) The use of new types and calibers of military and naval guns; (4) The inviolability of private property at sea in times of war; (5) The bombardment of ports, cities and villages by naval forces. In October, 1904, at the instance of the interparliamentary union, I issued invitations to all the powers signatory to The Hague convention to send delegates to such a conference and suggested that it be again held at The Hague.

From all the powers acceptance was received, coupled in some cases with the condition that we should wait until the end of the war then raging between Russia and Japan. The emperor of Russia, immediately after the treaty of peace which so happily terminated this war, in a note presented to the president on Sept. 13 took the initiative in recommending that the conference be now called. The United States government in response expressed its cordial acquiescence and stated that it would as a matter of course take part in the new conference and endeavor to further its aims. We assume that all civilized governments will support the movement and that the conference is now an assured fact. This government will do everything in its power to secure the success of the conference to the end that substantial progress may be made in the cause of international peace, justice and good will.

Monroe Doctrine.

There are certain essential points which must never be forgotten as regards the Monroe doctrine. In the first place, we must as a nation make it evident that we do not intend to treat it in any shape or way as an excuse for aggrandizement on our part at the expense of the republics to the south.

But we must make it evident that we do not intend to permit the Monroe doctrine to be used by any nation on this continent as a shield to protect it from the consequences of its own misdeeds against foreign nations. The Monroe doctrine does not force us to interfere to prevent the punishment of a port save to see that the punishment does not assume the form of territorial occupation in any shape. The case is more difficult when it refers to a contractual obligation. This country would certainly decline to go to war to prevent a foreign government from collecting a just debt. On the other hand, it is very inadvisable to permit any foreign power to take possession, even temporarily, of the custom houses of an American republic in order to enforce the payment of its obligations, for such temporary occupation might turn into a permanent occupation. The only escape from these alternatives may at any time be that we must ourselves undertake to bring about some arrangement by which so much as possible of a just obligation shall be paid.

To do so insures the defaulting republic from having to pay debts of an improper character under duress, while it also insures honest creditors of the republic from being passed by in the interest of dishonest or grasping creditors. Moreover, for the United States to take such a position offers the only possible way of insuring us against a clash with some foreign power. The position is therefore in the interest of peace as well as in the interest of justice.

Santo Domingo.

Santo Domingo has now made an appeal to us, and not only every principle of wisdom, but every generous instinct within us, bids us respond to the appeal. The conditions in Santo Domingo have for a number of years grown from bad to worse until a year ago all society was on the verge of dissolution. Fortunately just at this time a ruler sprang up in Santo Domingo who, with his colleagues, saw the dangers threatening their country and appealed to the friendship of the only neighbor who possessed the power and the will to help them. There was imminent danger of foreign intervention. The patience of foreign creditors had become exhausted, and at least two foreign nations were on the point of intervention and were only prevented by the unofficial assurance of this government that it would itself strive to help Santo Domingo in her hour of need.

Accordingly, the executive department of our government negotiated a treaty under which we are trying to help the Dominican people to straighten out their finances. This treaty is pending before the senate. In the meantime a temporary arrangement has been made under which the Dominican government has appointed Americans to all the important positions in the customs service, and they are seeing to the honest collection of the revenues, turning over 45 per cent to the government for running expenses and putting the other 55 per cent into a safe depository for equitable division in case the treaty shall be ratified among the various creditors, whether European or American.

Under the course taken stability and order and all the benefits of peace are at last coming to Santo Domingo, danger of foreign intervention has been suspended, and there is at last a prospect that all creditors will get justice, no more and no less. If the arrangement is terminated by the failure of the treaty chaos will follow, and sooner or later this government may be involved in serious difficulties with foreign governments over the island or else may be forced itself to intervene in the island in some unpleasant fashion.

Army and Navy.

I do not believe that any army in the world has a better average of enlisted man or of a better type of junior officer, but the army should be trained to act effectively in a mass. Provision should be made by suitable appropriations for maneuvers of a practical kind.

Provision should be made for the promotion of exceptionally meritorious men over the heads of their comrades and for the retirement of all men who have reached a given age without getting beyond a given rank.

There should be an increase in the coast artillery force so that our coast fortifications can be in some degree adequately manned. There is special need for an increase and reorganization of the medical department of the army. In both the army and navy there must be the same thorough training for duty in the staff corps as in the fighting line. The importance of this was shown conclusively in the Spanish-American and the Russo-Japanese wars. The work of the medical departments in the Japanese army and navy is especially worthy of study.

Our navy must, relatively to the navies of other nations, always be of greater size than our army. We have most wisely continued for a number of years to build up our navy, and it has now reached a fairly high standard of efficiency. This standard must not only be maintained, but increased. It does not seem to me necessary, however, that the navy should, at least in the immediate future, be increased beyond the present number of units. What is now clearly necessary is to substitute efficient for inefficient units as the latter become worn out or as it becomes apparent that they are useless. Probably the result would be attained by adding a single battleship to our navy each year, the superseded or outworn vessels being laid up, or broken up as they are thus replaced.

Naturalization.

On this subject I recommend: First.—A federal bureau of naturalization, to be established in the department of commerce and labor, to supervise the administration of the naturalization laws and to receive returns of naturalizations pending and accomplished.

Second.—Uniformity of naturalization certificates, fees to be charged, and procedure.

Third.—More exacting qualifications for citizenship.

Fourth.—The preliminary declaration of intention to be abolished and no alien to be naturalized until at least ninety days after the filing of his petition.

Fifth.—Jurisdiction to naturalize aliens to be confined to United States district courts and to such state courts as have jurisdiction in civil actions in which the amount in controversy is unlimited; in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants the United States district courts to have exclusive jurisdiction in the naturalization of the alien residents of such cities.

Criminal Laws.

In my last message I asked the attention of the congress to the urgent need of action to make our criminal law more effective, and I most earnestly request that you pay heed to the report of the attorney general on this subject.

There seems to be no statute of the United States which provides for the punishment of a United States attorney or other officer of the government who corruptly agrees to wrongfully do or wrongfully refrain from doing any act when the consideration for such corrupt agreement is other than one possessing money value. This ought to be remedied by appropriate legislation. Legislation should also be enacted to cover explicitly, unequivocally and beyond question breach of trust in the shape of prematurely divulging official secrets by an officer or employee of the United States and to provide a suitable penalty therefor.

Merchant Marine.

To the spread of our flag in peace and the defense of our flag in war a great and prosperous merchant marine is indispensable. We should have ships of our own and seamen of our own to convey our goods to neutral markets and in case of need to re-enforce our battle line. It cannot but be a source of regret and uneasiness to us that the lines of communication with our sister republics of South America should be chiefly under foreign control. It is not a good thing that American merchants and manufacturers should have to send their goods and letters to South America via Europe if they wish security and dispatch. Even on the Pacific, where our ships have held their own better than on the Atlantic, our merchant flag is now threatened through the liberal aid bestowed by other governments on their own steam lines. I ask your earnest consideration of the report with which the merchant marine commission has followed its long and careful inquiry.

It is a matter of unqualified satisfaction once more to call attention to the excellent work of the pension bureau, for the veterans of the civil war have a greater claim upon us than any other class of our citizens. To them first of all among our people honor is due.

Immigration.

As I said in my last message to the congress, we cannot have too much immigration of the right sort and we should have none whatever of the wrong sort.

The questions arising in connection with Chinese immigration stand by themselves. The conditions in China are such that the entire Chinese coolie class—that is, the class of Chinese laborers, skilled and unskilled—legitimately come under the head of undesirable immigrants to this country. But in the effort to carry out the policy of excluding Chinese laborers, Chinese coolies, grave injustice and wrong have been done by this nation to the people of China and therefore ultimately to this nation itself. Chinese students, business and professional men of all kinds, not only merchants, but bankers, doctors, manufacturers, professors, travelers and the like, should be encouraged to come here and treated on precisely the same footing that we treat students, business men, travelers and the like of other nations. As a people we have talked much of the open door in China, and we expect, and quite rightly intend to insist upon, justice being shown us by the Chinese. But we cannot expect to receive equity unless we do equity.

The Civil Service.

Heads of executive departments and members of the commission have called my attention to the fact that the rule requiring a filing of charges and three days' notice before an employee could be separated from the service for inefficiency has served no good purpose whatever. Experience has shown that the rule is wholly ineffective to save any man if a superior for improper reasons wishes to remove him and is mischievous because it sometimes serves to keep in the service incompetent men not guilty of specific wrongdoing. Having these facts in view, the rule has been amended by providing that where the inefficiency or incapacity comes within the personal knowledge of the head of a department the removal may be made without notice, the reasons therefor being filed and made a record of the department. The absolute right of removal rests where it always has rested, with the head of a department. The change is merely one of procedure. It was much needed, and it is producing good results.

Our copyright laws need revision.

Philippines and Other Islands.

During the last year the Philippine Islands have been slowly recovering from the series of disasters which since American occupation have greatly reduced the amount of agricultural products below what was produced in Spanish times.

The agricultural conditions of the islands enforce more strongly than ever the argument in favor of reducing the tariff on the products of the Philippine Islands entering the United States. I earnestly recommend that the tariff now imposed by the Dingley bill upon the products of the Philippine Islands be entirely removed, except the tariff on sugar and tobacco, and that that tariff be reduced to 25 per cent of the present rates under the Dingley act; that after July 1, 1909, the tariff upon tobacco and sugar produced in the Philippine Islands be entirely removed and that free trade between the islands and the United States in the products of each country then be provided for by law.

In my judgment, immediate steps should be taken for the fortification of Hawaii. This is the most important point in the Pacific to fortify in order to conserve the interests of this country. It would be hard to overstate the importance of this need. Hawaii is too heavily taxed. Laws should be enacted setting aside for a period of, say, twenty years 75 per cent of the internal revenue and customs receipts from Hawaii as a special fund to be expended in the islands.

I earnestly advocate the adoption of legislation which will explicitly confer American citizenship on all citizens of Porto Rico.

I wish also to call the attention of the congress to one question which affects our insular possessions generally—namely, the need of an increased liberality in the treatment of the whole franchise question in these islands. I earnestly ask that Alaska be given an elective delegate.

Admission to Statehood.

I recommend that Indian Territory and Oklahoma be admitted as one state and that New Mexico and Arizona be admitted as one state.

The Panama Canal.

Active work in canal construction, mainly preparatory, has been in progress for less than a year and a half. During that period two points about the canal have ceased to be open to debate. First, the question of route; second, the question of feasibility. The point which remains unsettled is whether the canal shall be one of several locks above sea level or at sea level with a single tide lock. On this point I hope to lay before the congress at an early day the findings of the advisory board of American and European engineers.

In addition to sanitating the isthmus, satisfactory quarters are being provided for employees and an adequate system of supplying them with wholesome food at reasonable prices has been created. Hospitals have been established and equipped that are without superiors of their kind anywhere. During the past year a large portion of the plant with which the work is to be done has been ordered. It is confidently believed that by the middle of the approaching year a sufficient proportion of this plant will have been installed to enable us to resume the work of excavation on a large scale.

What is needed now and without delay is an appropriation by the congress to meet the current and accruing expenses of the commission. The first appropriation of $10,000,000 out of the $135,000,000 authorized by the Spooner act was made three years ago. It is nearly exhausted. Unless the congress shall appropriate before that time all work must cease.

[In conclusion the president recommends an increase in the diplomatic and consular service and more adequate compensation of its members.]

AN OLD IDEA.

Shown to be Absolutely False by Modern Science.

People used to think that baldness was one of those things which are handed down from generation to generation, from father to son—just like a family heirloom.

Science has shown the fallacy of this belief by proving that baldness is not a constitutional disease, but the result of a germ invasion of which only Herpicide can effectually rid the scalp.

Washing, only cleans the scalp of dandruff, it doesn't kill the germs.

Destroy the cause you remove the effect.

Newbro's Herpicide will do this in every case. It is also a delightful dressing.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

While wheat and flour remain firm throughout the wheat centers, it has little effect upon the local flour market. Each retail dealer has his own idea as to what he will or can sell for. Corn continues firm with slight fluctuations either way from day to day. There is good demand for corn in the local market at 38 per ton, a low selling occasionally for 35 to 36, 35.50. While there is a good local demand for oats, the quality generally is unfair to those that are shipped in from other localities, hence dealers and consumers find it to their advantage to give the latter the preference by two to three cents per bushel. Live and dressed poultry is in good demand and it is promptly met at above quotations. When dressed turkeys sell for 18 to 20c per pound retail consumers find chickens, ducks and geese very satisfactory eating.

The Holladay Case

A Mystery
Of Two Continents

By
BURTON E.
STEVENSON

Copyright, 1905, by Henry Holt and Company

"And did you not like it—yes? I am ver' fond of stories of detection. That is why I was so absorbed in that affair of Mees—Mees—oh, I have forgotten! Your names are so difficult for me."

"Miss Holladay," I said. "Ah, yes. And has that mystery ever arrived at a solution?"

"No," I said. "Unfortunately we haven't any M. Lecq on our detective force."

"Ah, no," he smiled. "And the young lady—in her I conceived a great interest, even though I did not see her. How is she?"

"The shock was a little too much for her," I said. "She's gone out to her country place to rest. She'll soon be all right again, I hope."

He had taken a third cigarette and was lighting it carefully with his face half turned away from me. I noticed how flushed his neck was.

"Oh, undoubtedly," he agreed after a moment; "at least I should be most sad to think otherwise. But it is late; I perceive that you are weary; I thank you for your kindness."

"Not at all," I protested. "I hope you'll come in whenever you feel lonely."

"A thousand thanks! I shall avail myself of your invitation. My apartment is just across the hall," he added as I opened the door. "I trust to see you there."

"You shall," I said heartily, and bade him good night.

In the week that followed I saw a good deal of Martigny. I would meet him on the stairs or in the hall. He came again to see me, and I returned his visit two nights later, upon which occasion he produced two bottles of Chateau Yquem of a delicacy beyond all praise. And I grew more and more to like him. He told me many stories of Paris, which, it seemed, had always been his home, with a wit to which his slight accent and formal utterance gave new point; he displayed a kindly interest in my plans which was very pleasing; he was always tactful, courteous, good humored. He was plainly a boulevardier, a man of the world, with an outlook upon life a little startling in its materiality, but interesting in its freshness and often amusing in its frankness. And he seemed to return my liking—certainly it was he who sought me, not I who sought him. He was being delayed, he said, in establishing his business; he could not get just the quarters he desired, but in another week there would be a place vacant. He would ask me to draw up the lease. Meanwhile time hung rather heavily on his hands.

"Though I do not quarrel with that," he added, sitting in my room one evening; "it is necessary for me that I take life easily. I have a weakness of the heart, which has already given me much trouble. Besides, I have your companionship, which is most welcome, and for which I thank you. I trust Mees—Mees—what you call—Holladay is again well."

"We haven't heard from her," I said. "She is still at her place in the country."

"Oh, she is doubtless well—in her I take such an interest—you will pardon me if I weary you."

"Weary me? But you don't!"

"Then I will make bold to ask you—have you made any—what you call—theory of the crime?"

"No," I answered—"that is, none beyond what was in the newspapers—the illegitimate daughter theory. I suppose you saw it. That seems to fit the case."

He nodded meditatively. "Yet I like to imagine how M. Lecq would approach it. Would he believe it was a murder simply because it so appeared? Has it occurred to you that Mees Holladay truly might have visited her father and that his death was not a murder at all, but an accident?"

"An accident?" I repeated. "How could it be an accident? How could a man be stabbed accidentally in the neck? Besides, even if it were an accident, how would that explain his daughter's rushing from the building without trying to save him, without giving the alarm? If it wasn't a murder, why should the woman, whoever she was, be frightened? How else can you explain her flight?"

He was looking at me thoughtfully. "All that you say is ver' true," he said. "It shows that you have given to the case much thought. I believe that you also have a fondness for crimes of mystery," and he smiled at me. "Is it not so, M. Lester?"

"I had never suspected it," I laughed. "until this case came up, but the microbe seems to have bitten me."

"Ah, yes," he said doubtfully, not quite understanding.

"And I've rather fauced at times," I admitted, "that I should like to take a hand at solving it—though, of course, I never shall. Our connection with the case is ended."

He shot me a quick glance, then lighted another cigarette.

"Suppose if we were assigned to you to solve it," he asked, "how would you set about it?"

"I'd try to find the mysterious woman."

"But the police, so I understand, attempted that and failed," he objected. "How could you succeed?"

"Oh, I dare say I shouldn't succeed," I laughed, his air striking me as a little more earnest than the occasion demanded. "I should probably fail, just as the police did."

"In France," he remarked, "it is not in the least expected that men of the law should!"

"Nor is it here," I explained. "Only or course, a lawyer can't help it sometimes. Some cases demand more or less detective work and are yet too delicate to be intrusted to the police."

"It is also the fault of our police that it is too fond of the newspapers, of posing before the public. It is a fault of human nature, is it not?"

"You speak English so well, Mr. Martigny," I said, "that I have wondered where you learned it."

"I was some years in England—the business of wine—and devoted myself seriously to the study of the language. But I still find it sometimes very difficult to understand you Americans—you speak so much more rapidly than the English and so much less distinctly. You have a way of running your words together, of dropping whole syllables."

"Yes," I smiled, "and that is the very thing we complain of in the French."

"Oh, our elisions are governed by well defined laws which each one comprehends, while here—"

"Every man is a law unto himself. Remember it is the land of the free!"

"And the home of the license, is it not?" he added, unconscious of irony.

Yes, I decided, I was very fortunate in gaining Martigny's acquaintance. Of course after he opened his business, he would have less time to devote to me, but nevertheless we should have many pleasant evenings together, and I looked forward to them with considerable anticipation. He was interesting in himself—entertaining, with that large tolerance and good humor which I have already mentioned and which was one of the most striking characteristics of the man. And then—shall I admit it?—I was lonely, too, sometimes, as I suppose every bachelor must be, and I welcomed a companion.

It was Monday, the fourteenth day of April, and we had just opened the office, when a clerk hurried in with a message for Mr. Royce.

"There's a man out here who wants to see you at once, sir," he said. "He says his name's Thompson and that he's Miss Frances Holladay's butler."

Our junior butler started from his chair in his excitement; then he controlled himself and sank back into it again.

"Show him in," he said, and sat with his eyes on the door, haggard in appearance, pitiful in his eagerness. Not until that moment had I noticed how the past week had aged him and worn him down. His work of course might account for part of it, but not for all. He seemed almost ill.

The door opened in a moment and a gray haired man of about sixty entered. He was fairly gasping for breath and plainly laboring under strong emotion.

"Well, Thompson," demanded Mr. Royce, "what's the trouble now?"

"Trouble enough, sir!" cried the other. "My mistress has been made away with, sir. She left town just ten days ago for Belair, where we were all waiting for her, and nobody has set eyes on her since, sir."

(To Be Continued.)

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.

This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Alay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it always goes at once."

JOHN J. McBRIDE, Pres. S. B. Eng. Co., South Bend, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

CZAR PREPARES TO QUIT RUSSIA

Presence of German Squadron in Baltic Sea Indicates Intention to Flee.

DEFIANCE BY TELEGRAPHERS

Operators Meet Threat to Discharge Them With Resolution to Prosecute the Strike Until All of Their Demands Are Satisfied.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 5.—It is reported from Constat that a German squadron has been sighted in the Baltic sea near the Russian coast. Rumor attributes the appearance of the squadron is preparatory to the flight of the Russian imperial family.

Count Alvensleben (former German ambassador at St. Petersburg) has brought an autograph letter from Emperor William to Emperor Nicholas.

The sailors of the imperial guard have mutinied.

Three regiments at Riga have refused to perform police duties.

The emperor has received in audience Father John of Constat.

The city remains quiet, but extreme tension prevails. Armed patrols of cavalry and infantry are in the streets, especially in the neighborhood of the telegraph office. The telegraph and postal telegraph remains complete. Soldiers and employees of other departments are being used to deliver portions of the vast accumulations of mail.

Telegraphers Are Defiant.

The telegraph operators met a threat to discharge them unless they returned to work by resolving to prosecute the strike until their demands are satisfied. The League of Leagues, which is issuing decrees like a veritable provisional government, has openly defied the prefect's warnings to walking delegates and agitators that any attempts to persuade employees to leave their work would lead to their arrest and the imposition of a fine of $250, and is issuing a counter proclamation warning not only the Russian but the Danish operators to work at their peril.

The telegraph operators have replied to count de Witte's refusal to treat with them by an open letter, declaring they will have no negotiations with Interior Minister Durnovo and must now continue the strike until, first, the abrogation of all government measures to prevent the organization and activity of their union and congress; and, second, the liberation and reinstatement of their arrested comrades, adding, "thus we inscribe our banners with workmen's mottoes."

The authorities profess confidence that the strike will be broken in a few days, but the basis of their optimism is not stated. The immolation of Minister of the Interior Durnovo seems to offer a way of retreat for the government. This involves another surrender before the victorious proletariat.

Dictatorship May Come.

Count de Witte is now convinced that the emperor, by acceding to the demand for universal suffrage, may still find a common ground on which the government and the moderates and the extreme elements can stand. If this fails to stay the headlong march of events the proclamation of a ready made constitution might be tried as the last card. Then nothing would remain except the proclamation of a dictatorship.

Competent judges of the situation believe that a dictatorship, while it might restrain the rising flood temporarily, would only increase the dimensions of the cataclysm and when the dam goes, sweep the government and dynasty away to common ruin.

In order to convince the zemstovists that the government is honestly trying to meet the wishes of the moderate and substantial elements. Count de Witte has invited not only a deputation of the Moscow congress, Mr. Petrunkevich, Kokoshkine and Mouroumstov, but a number of other zemstovists, Prince Troubetzkoy, Dmitri, Shipoff, M. Guechoff, M. Kuzminkara and M. Vieg, to participate in the sessions of the cabinet on the election law.

Count de Witte appealed to the patriotism of the zemstovists, saying it was their duty not to inflame the situation, but to cooperate in saving the country from complete anarchy.

A decision was reached to grant practically universal, secret and equal suffrage to males 25 years of age, on the basis of one representative for each 250,000 of the population, but Count de Witte refused to yield direct suffrage to the country districts where there will be a double set of electors.

Balfour Cabinet Resigns.

London, Dec. 5.—The political crisis in the United Kingdom reached a climax Monday when Arthur J. Balfour, the premier, formally tendered the resignations of himself and the members of his cabinet to King Edward, who accepted them.

His majesty has invited Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman to an interview, when he will offer him the mission of forming a new cabinet. Sir Henry will accept the task and within a few days, even within a few hours, a new government will be formed.

It would now appear that the entire program has been cut and dried for some time, and it is even probable that the liberal leader already has completed his cabinet, though this must be left to surmise.

Celebrates 104th Birthday.

James Bellows McGregor of North Newport, N. H., believed to be the oldest Free Mason in America, celebrated his 104th birthday recently. He has voted the Democratic ticket since he was of age.

SACRIFICE HONOR TO GAIN WEALTH

Men in All Walks of Life Engage in Questionable Undertakings.

SUBVERT CHASTITY TO DOLLAR

Chief Counsel Hughes, Probing Life Insurance Matters, Makes Remarkable Address to Members of University Club at New York.

New York, Dec. 5.—Charles E. Hughes, chief counsel to the legislative committee investigating life insurance in this city, and State Senator Armstrong, chairman of the committee, spoke on life insurance matters at a dinner of the alumni of the University of Rochester at the University club.

The senator pointed out the good work the committee is doing, saying: "If there is any one thing which has been brought out by the present investigation of insurance matters it is that no one is so credulous as to believe the revelations of the investigation have been peculiar to the insurance business alone."

"The same condition exists in nearly all walks of finance. The moral condition of finance and of business men in this country has been subverted from old recognized standards of probity and honesty to attain private aims and great wealth at the sacrifice of a lasting good character. It is time we stopped and marked time. If we continue we shall face fate over the precipice of public dishonor."

Publicity Is Needed. "We should liken the workings of life insurance corporations to the game of football. There should be more 'open play,' more freedom from 'hidden signals' and 'close formations,' and that will work toward what I believe to be the best sort of a play, a minimum of legislation and a maximum of publicity. Public opinion will do the rest. The greatest good to be derived from present investigation is a moral awakening rather than statutory revisions."

When Mr. Hughes arose to speak the 200 men at the banquet table shouted a hearty greeting. In part Mr. Hughes said:

"We are not in this committee with a view to tearing apart the reputations of a few men. It is a time for a searching of hearts. It is a time for repentance and for new resolves. We need a revival of the sense of honor."

"We want to know less of the men who started in life poor boys and who amassed great fortunes and we want to know more about the men who, however poor when they started, have lived unsullied lives and died poor."

Awakening of Chastity.

"In the words of Burke, we need at this time an awakening to the sensibility of chastity in public men and public affairs. The men who hold public office, who direct great corporations, who solve great problems must be ready to show a clean balance sheet and prepare to answer if called upon the question, 'Where did he get it?' Sound character and a deserving influence in public life on the part of any man must be based on an honest and a strict accountability not only to the public but to self."

"I detest and abhor the collegian who consents to become the lickspittle of a questionable politician or who would sell his birthright—I mean common honesty—for any dirty opportunity which a career in politics or a position as a public official would bring him."

"What we need at this moment is a baptism of self-respect, a baptism that will enable men to stand high in the public respect in spite of the almighty dollar."

MITCHELL LEAVES THE SICKBED

President of Mineworkers Starts Committee by Appearing. Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 5.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine workers of America returned to the city rather unexpectedly Monday morning and presided at the meeting of the national executive board in session at headquarters. Mr. Mitchell left his sickbed to be present. Only routine business was done.

POWERS SEIZE LEMNOS ISLANDEarly Acquiescence by Porte Is Predicted by Austrian Government.

London, Dec. 5.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "The international fleet has occupied the island of Lemnos in European Turkey. The Austrian foreign office expects that the porte will immediately acquiesce in the demands of the powers."

Armed Men Guard Railroads.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 5.—The fight between the Louisville & Nashville and Cumberland railroads over the right of way over Greasy creek gap was brought before the court of appeals. Armed men guard the territory in dispute.

Conductor Gets Good Post.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Gov. Higgins has appointed a railroad conductor a member of the state board of railway commissioners. He is Henry N. Rockwell of Yonkers. The salary is $8,000 a year.

Chief Lieutenant With Murderer.
